MS's 11 Wins Picks Up Three Games-Trails By Two

JP Sneaking Up On Leader Board

Effective date: 2012-11-27

MS, the youngest player is picking games like a gritty veteran of many seasons. His 44 wins over the last four weeks has picked up five games in the standings. JP with his week leading 12 wins moved from 10 games out to six out, certainly within striking distance to the top spot with fives weeks left to play. JP's 12 wins is highlighted with his first career loner pick with his Miami pick over Seattle (check out the Message Board for more comments on this topic.)JP is the only player this year to put together four consecutive weeks of 10+ wins per week. Congratulations Rookie.

Other notable performances include KB's 11 wins and 45 wins over the last four weeks has closed his gap to six games out. DR picked 11 winners. It has been a quite season for the five-time champ but he has quitely moved into contention out by four games. LF,MM and SR each had 11 winners but it may be a case of too many too late. KS's 10 wins has him seated comfortably in third place and trails by three games.

I hope everyone had a great Thanksgiving and are preparing for the upcoming Stretch Drive to the finish. Game Thursday.
