SS and JR Stay on Top, Several Members Nipping at Their Heels

CM, DP, and MS All Have Very Strong 15-1 Weeks

Effective date: 2015-09-28

While we can’t say with 100% certainty, some are arguing that my rousing recap from last week, highlighting general membership’s abysmal performance, was the kick in the pants that this exceptional group of people needed to truly excel in Week 3. On average, members picked just shy of 13 winners in Week 3; impressive! Although there were five Loner Picks over the first two weeks, membership went 0-4 on Loners in Week 3. Additionally, membership was 4 for 4 on consensus picks in Week 3.

Now on to the notable performances from this week. As you may have seen in the byline, CM, DP and MS all went nearly perfect with 15-1 weeks. Well done to you all! With their very strong showings, CM and DP continued to move up near the top in the rankings. Other notable performances include DR, JP (that’s me) and LF, who all put up solid numbers with 14-2 weeks. LF moves into a tie for second place with DP, both only one game back from claiming the throne.

There was a considerable amount of movement at the top this week, and as you can see in current standings, the top half is only separated by a few games, so expect the top to continue moving around!

Happy Picking

JP